Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - First AccomplishmentPrevention

The Organization advocates for the development of policies and practices that enhance victim safety and empowerment while raising awareness of the need for prevention and intervention. Responses to domestic violence have historically focused primarily on intervention after the problem has already been identified and harm has occurred. There are, however, new domestic violence prevention strategies emerging, and prevention approaches from the public health field can serve as models for further development of these strategies. The Organization is committed to bringing these new approaches to Utah and has already successfully piloted two such programs:

- The Lethality Assessment Protocol (LAP) is an evidence-based tool designed to reduce risk and save lives. Modeled after a similar program in Maryland, the LAP involves a standardized assessment of identifying individuals at the greatest risk of lethal domestic abuse, and connecting those at risk with coordinated, essential victim services. Funding is used to train law enforcement officers, victim advocates, victim service providers, medical professionals, first responders, and behavioral healthcare providers to use a standardized, evidence-based protocol to reduce homicides.

- HomeSafe is another pilot program rooted in the Housing First approach, which focuses on rapidly getting people who are homeless or at risk of homelessness into permanent housing, a challenge in Utah due to limited inventory and further complicated by the needs of high-risk, high barrier individuals like those indicated by the Lethality Assessment Protocol to be at risk of intimate partner homicide. The theory is that any issues that may have contributed to an individual or family becoming homeless can best be addressed after they are stably housed. Focused on increasing survivors' access to and retention of stable housing, HomeSafe is guided by the safety and self-determination needs of domestic violence survivors and their children. Recognizing the complexity of domestic violence and abuse, the main component of HomeSafe is wrap around support from qualified professional advocates and flexibility in providing financial assistance and services to survivors and their children.

- The Organization partners with The Allstate Foundation through its Moving Ahead Grant. Survivors of domestic and intimate partner violence face a series of serious challenges. Many struggle to find a safe place to live, put food on the table, and create a lifestyle with financial stability. Protecting one's money and other assets is a challenge that many survivors face because financial abuse is a tactic that many abusive partners use to hold power and control over their partners. The Allstate Foundation curriculum was developed in partnership with the National Network to End Domestic Violence and has been academically validated by Rutgers University. The information in the course is intended to be general advice for those in an abusive relationship.

The Allstate Foundation and Utah Domestic Violence Coalition have partnered since 2015; each year, Utah Domestic Violence Coalition partners with two domestic violence service providers across the state. The domestic violence service providers provide the Move Ahead curriculum throughout the year, plus provide one-on-one case management to survivors who chose to engage the savings match and credit repair program.

During the 2019/2020 grant cycle, Utah Domestic Violence Coalition partnered with Utah Navajo Health Systems, which has a robust victim advocate program which serves San Juan County and surrounding areas. The second partner is Seekhaven•Moab, a domestic violence service provider with shelter services in Grand County that serves surrounding areas.
